

Prince George's County Congregations JOIN US BY MAY 1, 2025

Become a Sacred Grounds Congregation
Inspire Hope with Native Plant Gardens on Your Congregation Grounds and Members' Homes

A program of the National Wildlife Federation in partnership with Interfaith Power and Light & Interfaith Partners for the Chesapeake

Funded by Esther A. & Joseph Klingenstein Fund

Are you passionate about caring for creation and building a stronger community? Join our next Sacred Grounds multi-faith cohort and be a part of something transformative by putting your faith into action.

National Wildlife Federation's Sacred Grounds program provides an opportunity to care for creation through gardening with native plants. Planting native plants helps people and wildlife. They provide food for birds, butterflies, and native bees which in turn pollinate our own food. Additionally, they slow the flow of polluted stormwater, keeping our waterways clean and safe, especially important in an era of climate change. With Sacred Grounds we work with your congregation to both help create a native plant pollinator garden on your grounds and engage/educate your members about planting native plants at home.

What your congregation will get:

- Inspirational educational programs and materials
- Caring for Creation community building program for congregation
- Free native plants for members to plant at home
- Free congregation native plant garden on congregation grounds

To join this cohort and or for more information contact:

Naomi Edelson, Sr. Director, Wildlife Partnerships/Founder, Sacred Grounds
202-657-2024, edelsonn@nwf.org

